

Personal Commitment Certificate to Meet Future Energy Needs

I will reduce my home's impact on our state's energy needs. As part of the energy solution, I commit to do this through conservation, energy efficiency, renewables and my elected officials.

Do You Want to Be a Part of Your Energy Future?

Based on current projections, the demand for electricity is expected to double in Georgia by the year 2018. We don't believe that all of this capacity can be created by building new traditional power plants. Rather, a mix of renewable energy, conservation and energy efficiency, and the construction of new plants is needed. How will you commit to being a part of your energy future?

- I will commit to reducing my home's impact on our state's energy needs.
- I will commit to getting involved in guiding public policy by encouraging elected officials to consider the impact of any energy legislation on the individual consumer.
- I do not think I can make any difference.

Making a Difference at Home

Tri-County EMC has assembled a portfolio of energy products and services to help you take control of energy usage and reduce your home's impact on the state's energy needs. Which of these programs will you participate in?

- I have already signed up for the No Sweat air-conditioning program.
- I will sign up for the No Sweat air-conditioning program now.
- I have already had a free Tri-County EMC energy audit performed on my home.
- I will schedule a free energy audit to find ways to reduce my energy use.
- I will make a commitment to change my energy usage habits.
- I will purchase earth-friendly Green Power for some of my home's energy needs.
- I don't see how changing my habits will make a difference in energy rates or the state's energy needs.

Influencing Public Policy

Our representatives in Washington are making tough decisions about energy policy. Many special interest groups are lobbying to steer public policy. As your cooperative, we want to make sure the individual rights of the consumer are heard. One voice can be heard. Thousands of voices from cooperative members can make a real difference. Will you use the Our Energy, Our Future website to easily send a letter to your elected officials?

- Yes, I want to help influence public policy.
- No, I don't think my voice can help make a difference.

A Time for Action

If you elected to take action to make a difference, now is your chance. If you would like to be contacted by a Tri-County EMC representative about one of our programs, please complete the information below. Would you like to be contacted by a Tri-County EMC representative?
